

Nova Scotia Health Research Foundation November E-News

NSHRF Annual Report

The NSHRF Annual Report, which focuses on the topic of our priorities was tabled in the Nova Scotia Legislature this week by the Minister of Health. Please click here following link to view our annual reports page.

Common CV for upcoming competitions

For future competitions, NSHRF will be modeling their Canada Common CV templates after those created and used by CIHR. Please be aware that while NSHRF will strive to keep the CCV templates as close to the original as possible, there may be select NSHRF specific content required. At this time, NSHRF has one CV type called: Full Applicant CV and this CV can be completed at any time.

Please note:

Previously there was a section called Contribution Details where applicants would upload a separate word document with the completed information. In the new system, we will not require a separate upload but will require users enter the data directly into the Common CV system. The number of mandatory entries will be set as per the requirements of the relevant competition.

Call for Peer Reviewers

The NSHRF is currently accepting nominations for the 2013 Research Programs Peer Review Committees. Details of our peer review process, guidelines, committees and peer review roster system can be found on our website.

Knowledge Sharing Support Award

The Knowledge Sharing Support Award opened on October 15th, 2012 and is still accepting applications. Please click here to learn more about this opportunity.

Researcher Profile

Dr. Camille Hancock Friesen and her team at the Maritime Heart Center recently completed a study that proves peer pressure can be used for good. The study shows that peer mentoring in schools is a simple, fun and inexpensive way to significantly increase kids' physical activity levels. To read more click here.
